SURFACE PREPARATION EQUIPMENT

If our Customers chose to bring their surface preparations in-house, Godfrey & Wing has the process experience and engineering to specify the most efficient and effective equipment and process to meet their needs. Our Summit Technologies Division has a long history of delivering engineered systems to achieve almost any specification.

What makes Godfrey & Wing different? We are the only Company who makes it our mission to find the best economic solution for our Customers. In-source or Out-source, our goal is to provide a service that allows our Customers to be more competitive. And since we also run the processes we design and sell, we offering training in set-up, maintenance and quality control.

We have formed alliances with manufacturers of standard equipment so that our engineers may modify their stock offerings and provide a custom solution to meet the needs of a specific application. Many Companies chose not to purchase new equipment due to budget constraints or utilization concerns. Godfrey & Wing routinely stocks used Surface Preparation systems or components, ready for 'as is' installation or refurbished to meet your specifications:
